

Readme.md

It is with some difficulty that this project was put together.

The Rstudio was not accepting of the csv file that was created and so this directory had several different folders that are not important to the direct capstone project. However, they are included so that others may see the path taken to get to the current study's results.

In the Materials section are the items used for the actual study.

In the Data section are the cvs files.

There is also a folder labeled: X_Data unable to use in Rstudio, that has the attempted work of trying to get the csv files into Rstudio, which would have given graphs that would have been reproducible.

The Document section has our Google Docs for the capstone project, the poster for the project, along with a pdf that the poster was saved to because of a difficulty with opening the actual poster from the file and being able to see it. Not sure what happened there.